

SAI SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY RESEARCH CENTRE

Inculcating Sports

SSRRC Organizes Sports Empowerment Drive for Slum Youth Following Independence Day Celebrations

Date: 16/08/2026

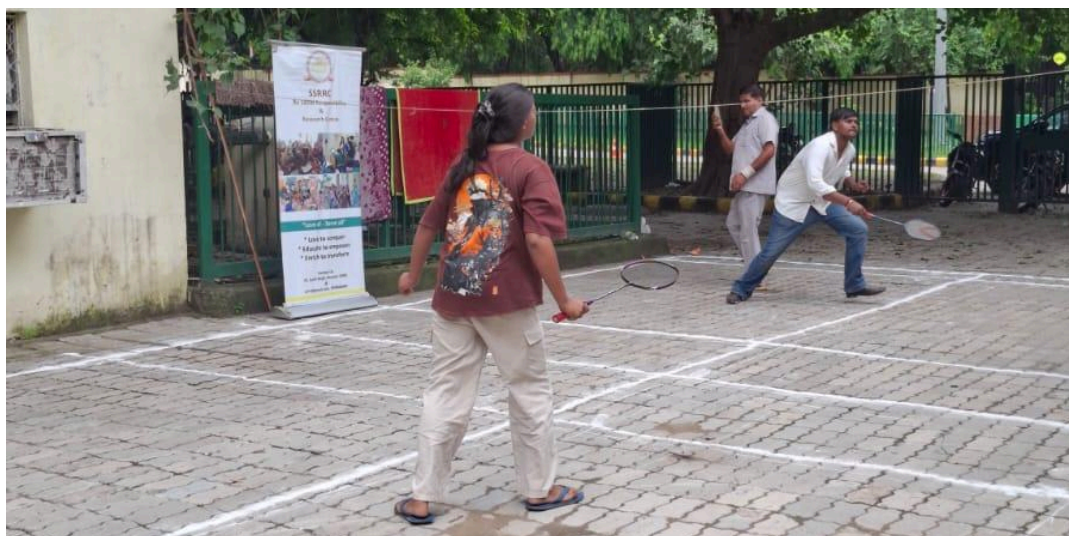

Venue: Safdarjung Flyover Slum Area, New Delhi

Organized by: Sai Social Responsibility Research Centre (SSRRC)

The Sai Social Responsibility Research Centre continued its ongoing commitment to holistic development by organizing a recurring dedicated sports event for the youth and children of the Safdarjung slum area. The core objective of this initiative was to promote physical well-being, encourage healthy competition, and provide a structured platform for underprivileged children to discover and excel in athletic activities.

The athletic sessions were managed by enthusiastic mentors Kuldeep, Ishaan, Era and Vedit.

Badminton Trials & Tournament: Following up on the initial selections made during the Independence Day event, structured badminton trials and tournament matches were conducted. Children participated with immense enthusiasm, showcasing their agility, coordination, and sportsmanship on the court.

Kho-Kho Matches: To foster teamwork, communication, and traditional athletic skills, energetic Kho-Kho matches were organized for the young participants. The traditional Indian sport brought dynamic energy and camaraderie to the entire community.

The most heartening aspect of the event was witnessing the vibrant enthusiasm and determination of the children as they played with complete focus and joy. The mentors also joined in and played the sport along with the students. For many, having organized sports trials, proper equipment, and structured guidance provided a rare and motivating opportunity to express their athletic talents.

Dozens of children and local youth participated actively throughout the day, and community members expressed deep appreciation for SSRRC's continuous effort to enrich the lives of children. Nutritious refreshments were served to all young athletes to maintain their energy and boost their morale.

SSRRC aims to continuously host structured sports activities across slum communities so that every child, regardless of background, has the opportunity to thrive both mentally and physically. The children and youth expressed their heartfelt gratitude to the organizers and volunteers for an inspiring day of sports and encouragement.

